Bathers Wear Fur-Collared Sweaters and Boardwalk Displays Many Styles With Advent of Jack Frost

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 13.—This has been the week of style change on the boardwalk. There is a nip of froat in the air which is bringing out the first display of new season furs and heavy dresses. With the passings of warm weather straw hats went into winter limbo and the few daring beach maids who insisted on taking their daily sun baths in abbreviated costume wore sweaters decked out with fur collars and deeds during their strolls on the strand. Most of the boardwalk outfits include furs either as trimming or entire overgarments.

The boardwalk took a holiday Tuesday for the purpose of extending formal welcome to Admiral Conz and the crew of the Italian fighting ship Conted did Cavour moored at Philadelphia. There was a public reception at the City Hall and many visitors of note from New York and other cities attended the banquet given Admiral Conz at the Ambassador in the evening.

Golf Tournament at Country Club Golfers Irom the metropolitan district are here practicing for the coming, fall tournament of the Atlantic City Country Cub, which will start over the Northfield course Thursday morning. Besides the big match play Friday and Saturday there will be consolation and medal play events.
